REPORT ON PIPPING CEREMONY

The Pipping Ceremony of Army College of Nursing, Jalandhar Cantt, was conducted with dignity and enthusiasm to formally promote the students of three batches to their next academic year. The occasion marked a significant milestone in the academic and professional journey of every nursing students, symbolizing growth, responsibility, and commitment to the noble profession of nursing.

The ceremony began with a warm welcome address, followed by an introduction emphasizing the significance of the pipping tradition—an important moment that represents the successful completion of one academic phase and advancement to the next.

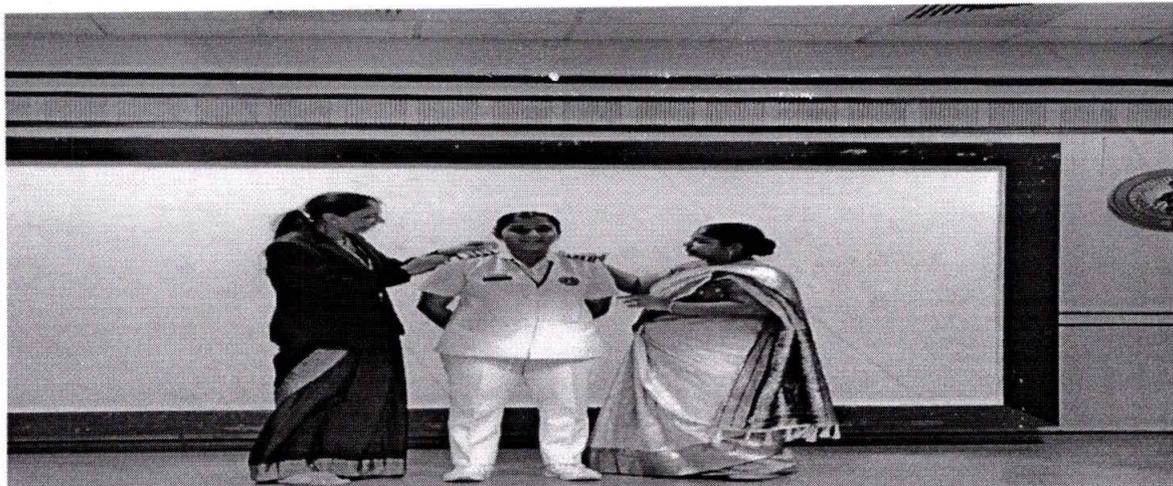

The Principal, Vice Principal, and faculty members conducted the pipping by adorning the students' shoulders with an additional stripe on their uniforms. This symbolic gesture represented not only academic promotion but also the confidence reposed in the students as they progress in their training.

The atmosphere was filled with pride and motivation as each student received their new stripe, reaffirming their pledge to uphold the values of discipline, compassion, and service central to the nursing profession.

To commemorate the occasion, sweets were distributed to the students as a gesture of celebration. The event concluded with encouraging words from the Principal, inspiring students to continue their journey with sincerity, dedication, and excellence in the upcoming academic year.

The Pipping Ceremony was a memorable and inspiring event, reinforcing the spirit of teamwork, professionalism, and commitment among the budding nurses of Army College of Nursing.
